[Pro]gram Of Varied Entertainment Planned [Fo]r May 12 To Assist Evacuation Film Project

A benefit program in the form of "Variety Night" is scheduled in Toronto for Friday, May 12, to aid the University of Toronto Film Society in raising funds to conclude successfully the evacuation film project which has now become greatly enlarged in scope.

Originally planned as a 20-minute film, it has been decided to lengthen it into one of 40-minute time. The shooting was to have been completed by early summer but it has now been extended to next spring as the project has assumed major proportions necessitating a change in plans.

"In order to record the full impact and significance of the evacuation story, a film of 20-minute length would not be plausible," said Les Carter, in charge of the production. "We would have to drop a lot of important shots, and thus sacrifice the entire film. But rather than do that we've decided to double the film length."

"At the same time," he added, "It has increased the cost of the production. It is far beyond the original budget of the Film Society. We have borrowed money and we are also going to solicit financial aid from interested Caucasians."

"We appreciate every help we receive, and we certainly need it badly," he commented upon learning of "Variety Night".

The May 12 program is being arranged by a group of Nisei for the purpose of making a contribution towards a project which they feel is of concern to those who have physically experienced the evacuation.

The show is to be held at the Ukrainian Labor Temple, 300 Bathurst St. to start at 8 p.m. The price of admission is 50c.

Included in the program are several short films, including a few minutes of the Evacuation Story, which is being cut and edited, and will be narrated by John Drainie of the CBC, musical entertainment, and a quizz program offering many prizes in which the audience will take part.

Further announcement will be made as the plans for the program progresses.

Scientist's Sons Prefer Baseball To Odori

NEW YORK. — When asked why his two sons were not present when Mrs. Sumi Yukawa, wife of Nobel Prize-winner Dr. Hideki Yukawa, was performing classical Japanese dances on a fund-raising occasion, the physicist replied, "They're much more interested in baseball."

The two boys Harumi, 17, and Takaki, 15, are students at a high school in Bronxville, N.Y., while their father is the professor of theoretical physics at Columbia University since his appointment last September. In November, 1949, he was awarded the Nobel Prize for his work in atomic research.

City Of Tokyo Fetes Nisei War Veterans

TOKYO. — The city of Tokyo honored veterans of the 442nd Regimental Combat Team, a World War II unit composed of Nisei Americans, who are now in Japan as members of the American occupation force.

Gov. Seiichiro Yasui of the Tokyo metropolitan district praised the achievements of the Nisei GI's and declared that they were an important factor in American-Japanese relations.

About 80 veterans of the 442nd were among the 600 American guests and 400 Japanese officials present.

Nisei Boys Dig Up Skeletons At Picnic

A group of young boys, members of the Variety Club of the University Settlement, led by Les Carter, their supervisor, who is also the production manager of the evacuation film of the University Film Society, went on a picnic last week-end to Jackson's Point, a summer resort on Lake Simcoe.

Scores of Communities Large and Small, Play Parts In Resettlement

By Staff Writer

Vavenby, B. C., Pincher Creek, Alta., Webb, Sask., Stonewall, Man., Gananoque, Ont. To most everyone, they are unfamiliar or unheard of places yet they are some of the smaller communities which have received Japanese Canadian evacuees from the west coast.

When the topic turns to centres to which Japanese relocated, the larger eastern cities as Winnipeg, Toronto, Hamilton or Montreal, the smaller cities as Kamloops or Vernon in B. C., Raymond or Lethbridge in Alta., and Chatham and Brantford in Ont., and the lesser communities as New Denver, B. C., Picture Butte, Alta., or Cedar Springs, Ont., come to mind. These are the points to which the evacuees moved in large or noticeable numbers.

However there are many lesser known communities which have shared in the Japanese Canadian postwar resettlement. And there are scores of these places which have taken in one or two families or even less. For instance, among the points, many of them smaller than whistle stops, there is Brule in northwest Alberta near the source of the Athabaska River. And on Manitoulin Island in Georgian Bay, there is a place called Sheguiandah.

Some others are Headingly and Whitemouth, Man., Kipp, Alta., Duchess and Countess, both in Alberta; Oxdrift, Caramat and Kowkash in Ontario, and Lone Butte, Buffalo Creek, and Beavermouth in B. C. All these are the new homes of some Japanese.

Now, with the letdown of the coastal travel barriers, Japanese have gone back to such small but familiar places as Ucluelet, Paldi and Bella Bella.

EVERYWHERE

Those of Japanese ancestry residing in Canada are now scattered far and wide, in large metropolises and in remote hamlets. At least eight of the ten Canadian provinces have Japanese Canadians living within their borders. Only the latest addition, Newfoundland, and possibly New Brunswick have not yet beckoned the evacuees. However, there is a chance that one or two Japanese are residing in the latter province.

There is a Nisei sailor stationed in Halifax, Nova Scotia, and it is believed that there is also an Issei Haligonian. One family, who must have a penchant for insular living, has gone from Vancouver Island from the far west, to Prince Edward Island, in the easterly extreme. Now living at Central Bedeque, their hegira is by far the longest and they are the easternmost Japanese Canadian dwellers in the Dominion.

While that is the farthest eastern trek, what are the most southerly and the most northerly points in Canada where Japanese are to be found? As to the former, Windsor will most probably come first to mind. However, Leamington in the same area beats Canada's motor city by a few miles. Dawson City up in the Yukon has the honor of being the most northerly point of Japanese Canadian advance.

FAR WEST

Oddly enough, Dawson City is also the most westerly point. This will raise many an eyebrow of disbelief, but if they will study a map of Canada they will note that it is on about west longitude which if followed south down the B. C. coast is 300 miles west of Queen Charlotte Islands.

Incidentally, one Japanese Canadian family is reported to be living on Queen Charlotte

FUTURE WORK OF THE JCCA

At all recent JCCA conferences as well as at the coming Ontario provincial gathering at Hamilton this week, strong emphasis has been placed on what is termed the "future program of the JCCA". With the keynote point that it occupies, it merits explanation and study.

Up to the present, the JCCA has been steeped in work of a corrective nature. It has been occupied mainly with problems arising out of the evacuation and the consequent resettlement and the disabilities placed against Japanese Canadians such as the wartime restrictions and the anti-Oriental laws in British Columbia. However, with the relocation completed as well as the near-conclusion of the evacuation losses claims question, the removal of the orders-in-council and the amendment to the B. C. franchise act, both occurring last year, much of the remedial work may be said to have been concluded.

Now, the JCCA is entering a new phase of activity. It is now to take creative action rather than corrective, to tackle projects rather than problems. Future program covers this field.

The work as well as the extent of work in this field is limitless. Among others it includes educational, cultural, inter-ethnic, social, and even international in its range of possible activities.

As a representative organization of the Japanese Canadians, it can provide the leadership and the collective body of an ethnic group within the Canadian society.

PASSING THRU

porary writers usually conform to the sour, bitter tradition of the American novel.

The writer usually has a set purpose in mind when he first punches out the great American novel—in some cases, to explore the frustrations, the low life, the brutality in the typical big city. He probes and twists with the biting words that come from his typewriter.

The works of Steinbeck, Farrell or D. H. Lawrence, and [illegible] marks in [illegible] bring that thought to mind. There's no escapism there, only a harsh realism.

'Boy From Nebraska' Becomes Publisher

By LARRY TAJIRI

In York, Nebraska last week the weekly Republican came out as usual on Thursday. It wasn't long after the paper had been distributed that a lot of York's citizens were discussing the week's main news story—in places like the First National bank, the corner drug store, Joe Blair's cleaning shop and the Thrift market. The 74-year old Republican, one of the oldest weeklies in the state, was to have a new editor and publisher in June, a native Nebraskan by the name of Ben Kuroki.

York is a town of about 7,500 people, the county seat of York County. It is about 50 miles west of Lincoln, the capital, which places it in the southeast part of the state. Its chief industries manufacture concrete products and school supplies. It also has [illegible], a foundry, a nursery and several hatcheries. Corn, wheat and oats are the main products of the country's predominantly agrarian economy.

York is no different from a thousand other small cities on the American land and there was a lot of interest last week about the new people coming to town. Joseph G. Alden who has edited the Republican for the past 32 years introduced the Kurokis, Ben and Shige, with a front-page picture and story. The news account told of some of Ben's war record which, incidentally, is one of the great individual stories of Americans in World War II and was made into a dramatic biography by Ralph G. Martin in "The Boy from Nebraska" (Harper's, 1946).

Editor Allen noted that Ben Kuroki had fought the enemies of democracy abroad in 58 heavy combat missions as a turret gunner over Africa, Europe and the islands of Japan, and at home, in a series of speaking tours which took him to every part of the country. Ben Kuroki then chose journalism as his chosen profession and enrolled at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln. He will graduate in June. Editor Alden welcomed "this apostle of rugged Americanism to the community and to a workshop in his chosen profession."

"He promises to impart to one of Nebraska's elder weekly newspapers new vigor, fresh enthusiasm and forward-looking spirit, all of which are auguries of growth and progress on the newspaper's 74th birthday," Editor Alden concluded.

Otherwise life went on as usual in York. The volunteer fire department put out three fires during the week. Eight hundred men attended the third [illegible] sponsored by the chamber of commerce in the city auditorium, [illegible] Burlington street and the [illegible] Hundred club of the [illegible] had a [illegible] [illegible] The Knights Templar [illegible] [illegible] Mrs. Henry H. Kerr [illegible] [illegible] auditorium.

There is something significant in the fact that ex-gunner Ben Kuroki who has flown in the skies over lands beseiged and damned by war and who knows well the instruments of death and sudden destruction has chosen to make a career of newspaper work. There was a time when the pen was mightier than the sword and the time may come again when the typewriter and the linotype may outweigh all the hell-bombs of creation.

On a lighter and more personal plane, we would like to welcome Ben and Shige Kuroki to that community of ink-stained wretches whose lives revolve around a weekly publication date. The Kurokis will probably come to hate Thursdays which is the day their paper goes to press and which will be the day the press breaks down or the fuse blows out. On Thursdays there will always [illegible] things to be d[illegible] which to do [illegible]. There always be one [illegible] ever trivial, [illegible] and page pr[illegible] somehow the d[illegible] and the press [illegible] and there will [illegible] about the copy [illegible] issue.

One of the two occupa[illegible] dreams of most [illegible] met is to own a small paper. The other dream, of course, is to write that great American novel, which is stuff to talk about over a [illegible] after the deadline has [illegible] but the words never [illegible] down on paper.

We first met Ben [illegible] in 1944 when he had just returned from his tour of duty as bomber gunner over Africa and Europe. He had been in the African campaign, survived [illegible]

THE WEEKLY HABIT

By TOYO TAKATA

It's been many a moon since our lamps have focussed on a Japanese movie. The ghost-town where everyone attended every activity, whether the particular doing was in their line of interest or not, was the last time we've seen a sob or samurai drama.

Lately, and as a further indication of the return of settled times, more of these films from such Tokyo lots as Shochiku and Daiei are being shown to Japanese audiences. There's at least one show a month in Toronto sponsored by one organization or another, usually giving afternoon and evening performances to accommodate the brisk demand for tickets.

What is quite surprising to us is that there is quite a following to these films among the Nisei. We know quite a number who make it a regular habit to attending the showings. And what amazes us is the number who go whom we consider to be below us in their knowledge of the Japanese language and they enjoy them.

One of the reasons why we've shied away is that we've had difficulty in following the gist of the plot as we can't make out the samurai chatter, or the official or office-room language. It might as well be Abyssinian.

Some Nisei are unreasonably prejudiced against Japanese films but in actuality they're not as bad as that. They're not in the same league as Hollywood with its heavy backing, technical know-how and concentrated facilities, but overlooking that they do a fair job in Tokyo. Japanese films, we think, seem to have a more mature plot than many of the recent raves from the U.S. film capital.

The worst feature of [illegible] films is its [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] changes.

Our [illegible] brings back the [illegible] a hard [illegible] [illegible] with a [illegible] ing sound along [illegible] wails, the wail between [illegible] shadows on the screen [illegible] nothing more elaborate [illegible] bed-sheet) as people [illegible] go to the washroom [illegible] by a continual [illegible] "mein-na-sai" and the versatile man in any Japanese community, the benshi.

The benshi was to the Japanese film what [illegible] was to Hardy, one was ineffective without the other. He laughs, sobs, he gets angry, he gets drunk, he has to take the woman's part, [illegible] wondered why Hollywood didn't have benshis in the silent days rather than [illegible].

And when one [illegible] benshi, invariably [illegible] him of Mr. [illegible] in Tokyo, the dean of all benshis in Canada [illegible] the most well-known [illegible] most popular [illegible] man with [illegible]

パリ新聞に連載紹介

戰死學生の手記「きけわだつみの聲」と「はるかなる山河に」がフランス語に譯され、パリの保守系新聞「フィガロ」か「フィガロ文藝」に連載され、その反響次第ではさらに一本にまとめて出版されて、戰時中の「日本人の良心」の一典型として紹介される

この響をもたらしたのはパリにいる彫刻家高田博厚氏で、アカデミー・フランセーズ終身書記長ジョルジュ・デュアメル氏が特に協力することになつているという。先月はじめ、東大佛文の渡邊一夫教授は突然パリの高田氏から手紙を受取つた。それには「たまた手にした雜誌「群像」で日本戰死學生の手記集「斷層の聲」を讀んで感動した。同時に渡邊教授らの指導で、すでに「きけわだつみのこえ」が出版されていることも知つた。實はパリの本屋から再三の依頼で日本の秀れた今次の戰爭文學を探していたときなので是非それらをフランスに紹介したい」と書いてあつた。高田氏の手紙は出版元の東大消費生活協同組合出版部に回され「きけわだつみのこえ」とその前に公開された「はるかなる山河に」を航空便で高田氏に送つた。それに對し早くもさる二十八日にその返事があり、飜譯には高田氏自身が當り、デュアメル氏がさらにみて、譯されたものは差し當り「フィガロ」紙か「フィガロ文藝」に一篇ずつ掲載され、反響があれば單行本として出版する計畫になつていることが明かにされた。そして高田氏の手紙にはこう付加えてあつた「戰時下の日本にも平和に對するこのような良心があつたことは人類に對する「あかし」として歷史に殘されねばならない。デュアメル氏も同じ意見である」

▲四月九日から五日間、關西に旅した。京都で永澤六郎氏や友人、神戶の門田勘太郎氏、奈良天理教の田代澤治氏などを訪い、ついでに吉野山へ足をのばして、落花深き山寺に南朝の歷史を偲んだ。今度の旅の目的は[illegible]、京都、大阪、神戶方面の二世の座談會を[illegible]見たい下準備であつた。目前から[illegible]いた[illegible]あるが、なかなかチャンスがないのである。彼等はそれぞれ異つた處に働いているので、一所に會合するということが簡單には運べない。然しそのうちに實現させる夢を持つている。大体、日本にいる二世で、英語力(會話だけでも)を持つているものは、他の日本人に比して優遇されている。彼等の生活の模樣は他日紹介するとして、彼等は外國人登錄カードを持つているし、それによつて有利に、然も優先的に彼等の生活が便利になつていることが多い。一頃行われていた外國人特別配給は食事情の好轉とともに廢止になつたが、然し現在彼等がその生活に困つているということは聞かない。寧ろ彼等は、その英語が、或は會話が出來ることによつて、現在得ている安易な生活の中に、エンジョーイしていてよいかどうかということである。彼等の現在やつている仕事が、彼等の生涯のものであるという自覺を發展させ、英語と日本語を更に勉强し、日本と外國を結ぶリボンの役目をするために、一段の努力を期待するものである。

▲日本は火事の多い國で江戶名物の一つになつている。東京の[illegible]數と稱されている熱海に近年稀れな大火があつた。この熱海に去る四月十三日[illegible]宿を燒いて[illegible]か[illegible]、四月十三日夕方には、[illegible]、お宮の散步に[illegible]海岸から火を發し、折柄の强風に街の中心を燒きつくし、一望ただ燒野原となつた。此の火事の最中、[illegible]この屋根に赤い旗、白い旗が、かざしてあるので、あれは何だときくと[illegible]、女の腰卷[illegible]傳統[illegible]マジナイだと答えられた。消火に機動性がなく、おまじないの傳統が今日にまで及んでいるのを思うと、この大火も當然で[illegible]むに足りない。湯の街エレジーという歌が流行しているが、今は火の街エレジーである。こんな事を敢て書くのは、日本にはこんな傳統が、まだまだ生きているというのを知らせるためである。この過去であるべきものが、日本人の生活の中に、いまだに生きていて、日本のエレジー(哀歌)を生み出している。

【ワシントン發】米國に對してソ連がこれ以上「冷たい戰爭」を續け、米國を押しつけようとするならば、必要によっては武力を以て之に應えるであろうと廿四日米政府内のある最高官吏が意見を述べた。彼のこの意見には何等の疑いもはさみ得ないほどに彼は重要地位にある人柄であると報じて居り、「ソ連はベルリン西部から米國を追い出さうとしているが、もし無理にでもそれを行えば米國はできるだけ平和的に對抗するけれど、場合によっては武力發動をも辭せない覺悟がある」と述べて居り、米ソ間の「冷戰」はまさに一觸即發の危險にあるものと解されている

【ポート・ベニング發】トルーマン米大統領は廿一日當地における産業、教育、新聞、官界各方面指導者の綜合會議に臨席「世界の動亂を防ぐためにその準備を整えるということの必要を痛感するが、米國が世界の指導權をにぎり強力でさえあれば、新しい戰爭は決して起らぬであろう」と演說した

神學博士の學位をアクセプトするかと突然に尋ねられて實に一寸おどろきましたが、返答する前にベーツ博士(元關西學院々長—トロント在住)にご相談したところ、日本將來のためにもよいことだから喜んでお受けしたらといわれるので受諾する事にいたしました

What Are The Chances Of The Westerns Repeating Their Feat Of Last Year?

By Staff Writer

N[illegible] how optimistically [illegible] the Westerns in [illegible] Senior League [illegible] and critical season. [illegible] their second semester [illegible] amateur activ[illegible] the Nisei ball club [illegible] three-way tie for [illegible] curtained a successful [illegible] a four-game [illegible] final post-season [illegible] the league title. [illegible] notable accomplish[illegible] that it was only [illegible] year in the Earls[illegible] and after their [illegible] in which they [illegible] down deeper and [illegible]

[illegible] reached the [illegible] no higher honor to [illegible] league competi[illegible] Now anything less [illegible] is a letdown from [illegible] would be judged as [illegible] successful year.

[illegible] what are the chances of the Westerns repeating their performance? All four teams, [illegible] they're the same [illegible] for the coming season, [illegible] evenly matched, and the [illegible] attack is offered as sub[illegible]. The best road to [illegible] to strengthen their lineups and that's what they're [illegible] to do.

[illegible] other three, Mahers, May[illegible] and West York, it is re[illegible] have bolstered their [illegible] bringing up juniors and [illegible] players from other [illegible]. They've had 40 to 50 [illegible] at their pre-season [illegible] that is indication enough that they'll field improved nines when the Mayor or some other civic dignitary will toss a wobbly blooper at Earlscourt Stadium on May 6.

But a look at the Westerns does not show anything as formidable or hopeful. They won't be mobbed by candidates, they've tabbed a few juniors for promotion, none of whom are expected to burn up the league, and they know all the available material. There won't be any "find".

VETERAN PLAYERS

But this does not mean that they are scraping the barrel as far as junior players are concerned. Aki Hayashi and Key Tanaka, who are expected to see action in the outfield, are two who have about cinched a place with the Seniors. Hayashi has been impressive with his hitting and Tanaka is considered the peer of fielders.

Five of the present team are over the thirty mark or nudging it and they should be crowded off to the sidelines but whether this will take place remains to be seen.

Two casualties of 1949 are still doubtful factors in this year's make-up of the team. Their offensive bet and the league's best picket defense, Idy Idenouye incapacitated for three months and out of the line-up since last May with a broken ankle, has fully recovered but until he gets into a game no one will know if he's ready to resume where he left off after the unfortunate injury.

Ken Mitsui, their strong-arm hurler who plays the outfield when not on the mound to boost the attack, fractured his wrist in the last game of the season and he remains a big question. The loss of these two key players would be a hard knock to take.

With too many unanswerable ifs and buts, no lineup can be conjured at this time for the opening game on Saturday, May 6 when the Westerns will square off with West York in the first game of the double-headed opener.

However all departments except the pitching is getting set. The hurling department is still the headache with only Kenny Ohara ready to go. The others cannot be counted on as yet though Aki Koyanagi and rookie [illegible] Uchikura are coming around.

NO SUNDAY GAMES

The league schedule calls for 36 games for each team, half of which will be under the lights. The arcs have now been installed and ready for operation, and the first night game is scheduled for Tuesday, May 9.

A regular week calls for a double-header Tuesday night, a single game Thursday night, a single game on Saturday afternoons, and a single game on alternate Saturday nights. On Saturday nights when league games are not scheduled, an exhibition game between one of the league teams and a visiting team is planned. One such game is slated for Saturday, May 13, when Westerns will play the Galt Terriers of the [illegible] League.

Songs Main Feature Of Manitoba Concert

WINNIPEG. — A large audience greeted the Variety Concert sponsored by the Manitoba Buddhist Association on Easter Friday. Held both day and night, people from all over Manitoba were attracted to it.

The odori by the small children and a Japanese skit featured the first half and during intermission, supper was the order.

The concert reached its climax with old shibais and comedy skits but the highlights of the evening were songs by the talented singers: Grace Terakita, Tak Hirose, Marion Natsuo, Hank Ozamoto, Hisashi Inouye, Kay Yamada and others.

A show and a shibai combined brought the long evening to a close.

Stars Take Losses In Clancy Series

The fortunes of the Nisei Stars in their Intermediate group of the THL King Clancy Series flowed to a low ebb when they took a 9-1 drubbing from Croftons and dropped a [illegible] loss to Vaughan Motors in two puck clashes last week.

At Brampton Arena [illegible] three pucks scooted past a startled goalie Tut Goto before he got his blocking eye adjusted. Two of the three were of the fluke variety. Yak Kataoka cut down the Vaughan Motor lead [illegible] at the end of the first period as the Stars opened their attack.

It was [illegible] when Joe Togawa [illegible] a scramble but a quick rush by the Motormen netted a goal. Tanaka scored to make it 4-3 but the Motormen pulled away.

On the previous night at the Royals Rink, the Stars iced a team of six men which was further shorthanded after Hiro Kawaguchi received a check that forced him to go off for repairs.

The classy Croftons had no difficulty notching their wins as the outmanned and exhausted Stars put in a strictly defensive game and goalie Goto performed heroics between the pipes to thwart many a rush.

The Stars started the late season series with a fine show but in the later games, players unable to make the out-of-town trips have made it a headache for chief worrier Matt Matsui who has to shuffle the lineup every game.

BOY FROM NEB.

raid on Ploesti from which few American planes returned and had been interned by Franco Spain when his plane had made a forced landing in Spanish Morrocco. He had served in the early raids on Germany when Allied airpower was stretched near breaking point, had served his 25 missions and volunteered for five more. He had been presented to the King of England and had received a chestful of medals.

When Ben Kuroki came home in Dec. 1943, he already had risked death as often and had [illegible] as much as any one citizen would be expected to do. But the boy who had grown up in the little town of Hershey, Neb. and [illegible] he had experienced little of the type of race hatred encountered by West Coast Nisei was almost immediately projected into the wartime battle of Japanese Americans for justice and recognition. Although he had never made a speech before a large group high a life, he gave a 45 minute speech in the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco, an audience of 800 which was used to hearing prime ministers, cabinet officers and university presidents, a highly sophisticated audience made up of the city's leading business and professional leaders. When Ben Kuroki finished his speech, the audience, some in tears, rose to cheer him. That speech by Ben Kuroki in 1944 has been called the turning point in the battle of public opinion on the evacuee question on the Pacific coast.

Later Ben Kuroki visited the

Dies Following Tonsil Operation

Five-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shoichi Takayama, Phyllis Eiko, died on April 24, following a tonsil operation. The inhalator squad was called but they were unsuccessful in reviving her.

She is the second Sansei child to die of a tonsil operation in Toronto in recent months.

The funeral is to take place at Myers-Elliot Funeral Home at 7:30 p.m. on April 26.

relocation camps, speaking to Nisei audiences, some of whom were embittered and hostile as a result of evacuation and discrimination. His sense of duty and group responsibility led him to volunteer for air corps service as a combat gunner in the Pacific. We recall telling Ben in Salt Lake City that he had no chance of serving aboard the new B-29s, that the air corps wasn't accepting Nisei as combat personnel. But Ben got in, with the personal intervention of Secretary of War Stimson, and served 28 heavy combat missions against Japan. That was Ben's answer to the "No Japs Wanted" signs he had seen in Pacific coast windows.

Shortly after V-J day Ben was flown directly from Tinian to New York City and found himself, a day later, on the same stage with Bill Mauldin and some high brass named Marshall, Wainwright and Chennault. He was one of the speakers on the New York Herald-Tribune forum and his speech was being broadcast on a national network. The president of the Philippines also was on the stage and the foreign minister of Australia and a Navy captain named Harold Stassen.

In that speech which was heard by millions of Americans and read by millions more in the Reader's Digest, Ben Kuroki said:

"I've had 58 bombing missions now, and I'm still tired enough so my hands shake, and plenty of nights I don't sleep so good. I'd like to go home to Nebraska and forget the war, and just lie under a tree somewhere and take it easy. It's hard to realize that the war is not over for me. Not for a lot of us, Jewish Americans, Italian Americans, Japanese Americans. While there is still hatred and prejudice, our fight goes on. Back in Nebraska on our farm, when I planted a seed, I knew that after a while I'd get a crop. That's the way it was with a lot of us in this war—we went to plant the seeds to bring in a crop of decency and peace for our families and our children."

For more than a year after that New York speech Ben was engaged in an extended speaking tour for the JACL and for the [illegible] West Association. Then he and Shig Tanibe of Pocatello [illegible] and Ben enrolled [illegible] University of Nebraska.
